So, whaddaya think?
Well, um... It's very nice dear.... But, well, we don't look like that, and this never happens in the comic...
Ssssh! We'll sell more copies this way!

Damn! It's cold out there.

Hey, you live in Boston. Either get used to the cold or suffer in silence.

Oh, it's not so bad, Ken dear. I remember visiting my uncle in Edinburgh one Christmas holiday. That was cold!

Well, this is cold enough for me, thanks. Ooooh, he's cute!

Now now, children. We have serious business. We did not come just to shop.

Where? Lemme see.

Oh, hey. I didn't know Dan Savage was putting out a book...

Two years ago. Earth to Paulie.

Hey guys! Haven't seen you for a while.

Hello John!

Yo Johnny.

Jonathan, dear, how are you?

Oh, can't complain. You guys need help with anything?

Yes, thank you, John. May we post this on your bulletin board?

Sure thing, Paulie. What's up?

Apartment for rent. Roger moved out, and Taye wants to find someone to split the rent with.

Ooooh! Taye, huh? Mmm... I'd consider it. He's one sexy guy.

Frankly, I'd be glad to lower his rent. It's like taking money from family...

Paulie, we all talked about this. Taye doesn't want you to lower his rent. He can affford it fine. He just wants to share rent so he can put a few dollars away.

Doug, you must know by now that Paulie adopts everyone he knows. It's the reason we all love him, right?

Mmm, that's one of the reasons.

Want to know one of the other reasons, lover?

You can show me when we get home, you naughty thing.

What happened to the old days, Paulie? Remember when we used to go dancing? You, me, Arthur... How is Arthur anyhow?

He's fine. He asked me to say 'Hi.' Thanks for reminding me.

Tell him 'Hi' back. He still painting? I was thinking of asking him to do some kind of mural on that blank wall outside.

Yes, he still paints quite a bit. I'll tell him you want to speak to him about it.

As to what happened? Eh... We all grew up, I guess. The clubs mean something totally different now, and I leave it to the young people.

Besides, I appear to have traded youth for domestic bliss, and I have no complaints for the trade off.

These for me, Johnny.

If you miss the clubs, head down to Club Beat on Sunday. A bunch of us are going. Me, Taye...

Twenty years ago, I would have said yes without a pause. But, I think I'll pass. Thanks.

Suit yourself.

Ready to brave the elements, Ken? Or are you gonna whine about it all the way home?

Keep it up, Funnyboy. You're about one joke away from a severe beating!

Hungry? I know a great little Italian restaurant just a few blocks away. The walk will be invigorating!

I'd better go get the children. Take care of yourself, John.

You too, Paulie.

paf!

Apartment to share, huh? Hmmmm...
I know the folks that are renting that place. Really nice. Some of my favorite customers.
Yeah, but this is dated January. They must've rented it out by now.
Never hurts to ask.
Hello? May I speak to Mr. Mayhew, please? Mr. Mayhew?
My name is Martin Miller. I'm calling about the ad you put up in Triangle Books?
Do you still have that apartment for rent?
